

Abstract of the Disclosure

An interactive vending machine is provided that facilitates the purchase of digital media. The machine includes audio speakers and a video screen that presents displays controlled by a consumer and that enables audio-visual promotional material and informational material to be produced on the vending machine in conjunction with purchasing digital media from the vending machine or from a source remote from the machine.